

NYPD RECRUIT

Dear Family Member or Friend,

I am writing to you in hopes that you will take a moment to consider joining the New York City Police Department. A career as a Police Officer is an exciting and meaningful way to make a difference and help those around us. Additionally, becoming an NYPD Police Officer gives opportunity to be promoted to Detective and Sergeant, and eventually Lieutenant and Captain. All uniformed positions come with paid health care, a pension plan, and paid vacation provided by the City. These jobs have been the cornerstone of this great city for over one hundred years. I proudly serve the Department and would be happy to answer any questions you may have. On December 27, 2016, the City will announce registration test dates for the Police Officer exams which will be given in January 2017. While the test dates will not be announced until the 27th, you can click on the link below now to receive alerts and see how to apply. You can have a great career while helping make a difference in this great city.
